

Out of concern with the rapidly developing news surrounding the COVID-19 Coronavirus, Pritchard & Abbott, Inc. is dedicated to the safety of our employees as well as the numerous individuals who are employed by the entities we serve. This concern also applies to the countless number of taxpayers that we interact with. Our goal is to successfully face these current health related challenges while continuing to be the leading provider of professional appraisal and information technology services.

With P&A maintaining six (6) different office locations across Texas the regional condition can present very different challenges due to the severity of the virus in any singular area. This also provides an advantage that allows us to pool resources and shift services when necessary. We are constantly monitoring all Federal, State, and local directives or mandates, to be apprised of all new developments. We have provided resources to our employees to stay informed as our management team is working together with regular meetings to deal with current concerns as well as planning for future developments including any possible travel restrictions.

We will continue to maintain a high level of communication with those we serve while monitoring any news or directives from our local, State and Federal governments. Our focus, dedication, and support are unwavering as we find solutions to the issues we face in these unique times. We hope and pray that you and your loved ones remain safe and healthy.
